SANTA ANA COLLEGE
PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Online Teaching Conference
2018 HIGHLIGHTS

Attendees:

Jodi Coffman
Cherylee Kushida
Judith King
Kelly Nguyen
Michelle Macintyre
Annie Knight
Reyna Cummings
Mark McCallick
Trudy Naman
Rachael Libolt
Catherine Emley
Tammy Cottrell

TAKEAWAYS:

- I will introduce my students to NetTutor – free SAC provided Canvas integrated tutoring resource
- Use more videos in online courses
- Use video for student feedback
- Online presence and interaction with students is pertinent to student online success
- It is easier to create accessible documents than it is to fix non-accessible ones after the fact.
- We need to all understand the future of online education
- It is very important to "Humanize" and to be "present" in your online courses
- We need to be culturally relevant in online teaching. This means that we have to include culturally relevant assignments, images, etc.
- Though the OEI has an Instructional Design team, it is expected that each college have their own Instructional Designer review and assist faculty prior to submitting to the OEI Course Review. Most colleges, especially one of our size, has an instructional designer or two.

The Online Teaching Conference is held annually in the spring:

It is funded by the California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office. It is an event for faculty, staff and administrators interested in online education. Two-day conference with pre-conference workshops offered for an additional fee.

http://onlineteaching conference.org

Information about Online Teaching at SAC:

http://sac.edu/disted

SANTA ANA
C O L L E G E
Professional Development