Financial Aid Termination Due to Low Cumulative Grade Point Average and Completion Rate

Schools participating in the Title IV Student Financial Assistance Programs are required to establish an academic standard that measures a student's progress toward an educational goal: certificate, degree or transfer. Rancho Santiago Community College District's Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) standard includes the following elements:

1. A time frame in which the student's goal must be completed (maximum timeframe),
2. An evaluation of units completed (completion rate) and
3. An evaluation of grade point average (cumulative GPA).

All students are expected to successfully complete at least 66.5% of all coursework attempted, and to maintain a cumulative Grade Point Average of at least 2.0 (C average).

An evaluation of your satisfactory academic progress has been performed at the end of Spring 2021 semester. The result shows that you fail to meet the SAP standard after a warning semester. Your cumulative GPA is below 2.0 and your completion rate which was calculated based on all courses you have attempted and completed, is below 66.5%. Therefore, you are ineligible to receive financial aid starting Summer 2021 semester. Although you have been disqualified from financial aid, you do remain eligible to attend Rancho Santiago Community College District. Eligibility for the California College Promise Grant (CCPG) (formerly known as the BOG Fee Waiver) is calculated separately and this letter does not concern the CCPG. In order to regain financial aid eligibility, you must complete the deficient units and bring your cumulative completion rate to at least 66.5%. Notify Santa Ana College Financial Aid Office after you achieve both the required cumulative GPA and completion rate. If you have extenuating circumstances as to the low GPA, you may appeal by following the appeal procedures below.

The Financial Aid Committee will review your appeal and evaluate your extenuating circumstances documented on this form. You will be notified by mail of the committee's decision. You will not be paid for a semester if your appeal is approved after the semester has ended. The deadline to submit your appeal documents for Summer 2021 is 07/08/21, Fall 2021 is 11/12/21, Spring 2022 is 05/10/2022, and Summer 2022 is 07/02/2022 (* Subject to change without notice. Please check with the Financial Aid Office for any change.).
